Types of protection measures for victims of violence within the family

- ▶ 1) Warning
- ▶ 2) Emergency intervention order and
- ▶ 3) Protection order

Warning

Warning shall be applied when the Police identifies a case of violence within the family for the first time, it does not have evident elements of an offence and there are no grounds for an emergency intervention. The warning decision shall include a notification on applicable legal sanctions in case of continuing or repeated violence. The warning is issued as soon as possible after learning about the case.

Emergency intervention order

An emergency intervention order is made by a competent police officer to protect the life and health of a member of the family if one member of the family has committed violence against another member of the family and there is a reasonable belief of imminent risk of repeated or continuing violence. An emergency intervention order may also be made if a violent act without elements of offence is committed within one year after receiving a warning.

Protection order

The victim or alleged victim of violence within the family or the support center with the consent of the latter may submit to the court an application for protection order. If the victim of violence within the family is a minor or a person ruled by the court as incapable or with limited capability, the motion for the protection order could be made by close relatives, the legal representative and the guardianship and trusteeship body.
