Welcome to ICAS 11 in Leiden, The Netherlands

From Leiden University

To all participants of the Eleventh Edition of the International Convention of Asia Scholars, I am very pleased to welcome you all to the historic city of Leiden and its renowned university. There are many factors that make Leiden an ideal location for this particular convention. Leiden University is the oldest University in The Netherlands and one of the most eminent centres of knowledge on Asian Studies in the Western world. For several centuries our researchers have been developing expertise on all aspects of this vast continent. The first Chair in Chinese and Japanese was established here in 1855, and today we offer a broad package of what are in many cases unique study programmes in Asiatic languages and cultures. Our twelve Master's programmes that focus on Asia attract students from all corners of the world. We also have an International Studies programme in The Hague that attracts hundreds of students each year. Many of these students, too, opt for a specialisation in South, Southeast and Asian Studies.

As well as our teaching programmes, Leiden also has a number of dedicated institutions that focus specifically on international exchange and collaboration with Asia. Among these are the Van Vollenhoven Institute, the International Institute for Asian Studies, and the Royal Netherlands Institute of Southeast Asian and Caribbean Studies (KITLV), which has a second location in Jakarta, Indonesia.

Our university has close partnerships with several leading museums in the city of Leiden that hold extensive collections on Asia, including the National Museum of Ethnology and the Japan Museum SieboldHuis. We are also proud that our University Library has set up a unique centre of expertise in the area of Asia, namely the Asian Library, where all our collections on Asia have been brought together under one roof.

Our Hortus Botanicus Leiden is the oldest botanical garden in The Netherlands. The oldest section of the Hortus, dating back to 1590, is the current Front Garden. It has been renovated with new plants and in 2000, a new glasshouse was added to form the Winter Garden.

The Clusius Garden gives an impression of what the Hortus was like around 1600, when the bonds between the Netherlands and Asia were formed. The exchange of plants and knowledge between these cultures can be seen, e.g. in the Japanese Garden and the Chinese Herb Garden.

Over the course of the centuries Leiden has evolved in becoming a true Asian hub, a meeting place where national and international researchers, teachers and students can come together. Leiden University is very proud to welcome you all to Leiden, and I wish you a fruitful time, enjoying the company of colleagues and participating in fascinating discussions.

Yours sincerely,
Carel Stolker,
Rector Magnificus
and President,
Leiden University

From GIS Asie

Established in 2013, the French Academic Network for Asian Studies (GIS Asie) brings together scholars from a variety of disciplines across the humanities and social sciences, working on all Asian countries. Currently, GIS Asie includes 1 Belgian and 21 French research institutions bound by an institutional agreement, allowing 29 research centres to participate in its activities. The network is supported by the French National Centre for Scientific Research (CNRS), the largest national-level public research organization in France.

From The International Institute for Asian Studies

Welcome to Leiden, at the heart of Europe, but where Asia is clearly a constitutive element in the shaping of the region and its diversified societies; hence the theme of ICAS 11: 'Asia and Europe. Asia in Europe'.

Leiden is home to The International Institute for Asian Studies (IIAS), a relatively young institute with a resolute mandate to act as a catalyst for collaboration with Asian and international partners, beyond narrow – disciplinary, institutional or national – borders. ICAS is one of IIAS's signature initiatives, which has grown into an inclusive global space serving the community of scholars and other actors interested in Asia.

For this edition, the ICAS Secretary worked closely with Leiden University and the City of Leiden to not just make the event possible, but to also render it locally meaningful. With them, a large number of individuals and organisations in Leiden, The Hague, Amsterdam, and the Netherlands in general, worked to make the event a unique intellectual and sensorial experience.

A collaborative organisation at heart, IIAS partnered up with our associates from the French Network for Asian Studies (GIS Asie). With GIS Asie, we felt we should emulate the 'Tour de France', which sometimes starts beyond France's borders, by combining both our biennial events into one bigger conference, thus framing the largest Asian studies event ever organised in Europe. The IIAS/ICAS-GIS Asie-Leiden University partnership guarantees a wider diversity of approaches and an enhanced exposure of people of different knowledge backgrounds from Europe, Asia and the rest of the world.

IIAS and GIS Asie both play an active role in the European Alliance for Asian Studies (EAAS), which will be represented at ICAS. The EAAS brings together institutions from different corners of Europe, defying competition and national-centrism to freely convene and share perspectives.

IIAS also seeks to engage with its Asian and international partners, such as the Shanghai Academy of Social Sciences (SASS), host of ICAS 4 in Shanghai in 2005. Our collaboration, built on a spirit of trust and shared engagement, was recently marked by SASS's new office space in the IIAS building.

Another Asian, or 'globally entangled Asian', component at ICAS, is the event put together by the Hawai'i-based 'Engaging With Vietnam' network. EWV was inspired by the ICAS 11 theme to frame its own conference around the concept 'Vietnam in Europe, Europe in Vietnam', recognizing how Vietnam may not be reduced to its original geography, and that Europe may itself be 'Vietnamese' as Vietnam is also 'European'.

ICAS is continuing to morph into an ever more locally embedded global event, a process that accelerated in 2017 in Chiang Mai, where communities worked hand in hand with Chiang Mai University to 'contextualise' the Convention, ensuring that ICAS thereafter not be reduced to a restricted exercise among a few 'authorized academics'. As a result, you will find ICAS 11 to ultimately be a public event; an experience built on the mobilisation of a community, of scholars, of students, and of the city. Our colleagues have worked long hours to involve not just scholars from across the globe, but also local artists, museums, heritage activists, craft NGOs, local restaurants and businesses, and so forth.

There are many examples of our global-local experiments and even more stories around this exceptional ICAS event, but I need to stop here, and let you discover them for yourselves.

Welcome to Leiden!
Philippe Peycam,
IIAS Director

Like ICAS, GIS Asie organizes a biennial conference; the previous edition, which took place in Science Po Paris in June 2017, brought together 900 participants. Starting with our collaboration on the ICAS Book Prize in French in 2016, IIAS and GIS Asie now decided to join hands to organize ICAS 11 together in 2019. The topic 'Asia and Europe, Asia in Europe' echoes with the fact that, like many European countries, France has a long history of entanglement with Asia. This collaboration also reflects our participation in the European Alliance for Asian Studies, demonstrating our engagement in developing connections at the European and international levels in the field of Asian studies.

Co-organizing ICAS 11 offers an unprecedented international stage for scholars from the GIS network. In all,

GIS Asie is supporting the participation of 200 scholars coming from more than 20 French universities and research institutions, including the 5 French research centres located in Asia. It is also sponsoring the opening concert 'Windflow between Asia and Europe' by the French-Mongol musical duet formed by Michel Tournier and Enkhjargal Dandarvaanchig. No doubt, ICAS 11 will open fresh avenues for long-term scientific and institutional collaborations.

On behalf of GIS Asie, we wish you a thrilling intellectual and cultural experience during these 4 days in Leiden.

Aurélien Varrel,
GIS Asie Director,
CNRS Researcher

Myriam de Loenzien,
GIS Asie Deputy director,
IRD Researcher

Nobody could have predicted that it would take 21 years before ICAS would return to its place of birth. Has it fully grown up? By no means.

There is still a world and more to explore for this fledgling. In those 21 years the world of Asian studies has changed considerably. The ICAS Book Prize (IBP), founded in 2005, bears testimony to this. While submissions for the first IBP English-language edition were mainly written by western authors, the current eighth edition has seen the number of Asian authors rise to more than fifty percent. This number is much higher still when we consider the Korean and Chinese language editions, put in place in 2017, in which all books are written by Asian authors.

I use the IBP as an example, but it goes without saying that it also applies to the world of Asian studies at large. Asian studies are no longer the preserve of 'orientalist' western scholars; they have been Asianised, and rightly so. Asia has become part and parcel of the world; it is everywhere, including Europe, which will be evident from the more than 2200 participants attending ICAS 11, stemming from 6 continents and 75 countries. ICAS's return to Europe reflects this presence, and so too its theme: 'Asia and Europe. Asia in Europe'. There will be a notable French representation because ICAS 11 is co-organised by GIS Asie, the French Academic Network for Asian Studies, and instead of having its biennial meeting in Paris, it is joining us in Leiden.

The convention will officially commence with a parade of all participants through the city. The opening ceremony, being held in one of Leiden's gothic churches, will involve welcome words from representatives of the university, city and organisers; musical elements, such as a custom made composition 'Wind flows between Asia and Europe'; the ICAS Book Prize awards ceremony; and a drinks reception. During the ICAS 11 week, the 2200 participants will meet in 550 panels, gather at roundtables, be enthralled by book and dissertation presentations, be inspired at the ICAS Film Festival, enjoy Asian art/photo exhibitions, take part in discussions in the Academic Freedom Space, relax in the botanical gardens, tour the city by canal boat, be amazed by the special Asia performances throughout the city, lunch and dine at the many Leiden cafés and restaurants or the ICAS Food and Cultural Market, and on the last evening, go wild at the ICAS Closing Party in the Leiden City Auditorium.

I am writing this text in Kyoto, the next venue of ICAS in 2021, and I am already excited about all the astonishing venues we will include and scintillating events we will organise, such as a party at the fabulous Manga Museum. But first Leiden, where ICAS turns 21 with a shining future ahead of it, guaranteed by both the ICAS Team and all future hosts of ICAS in Asia.

Organising Institutions

The International Institute for Asian Studies (IIAS) is a global Humanities and Social Sciences institute and a knowledge exchange platform, based in Leiden, the Netherlands, with programmes that engage Asian and other international partners. IIAS takes a thematic and multi-sectoral approach to the study of Asia and actively involves scholars and experts from different disciplines and regions in its activities. The Institute's current thematic research clusters are 'Asian Heritages', 'Asian Cities' and 'Global Asia'.

International Convention of Asia Scholars (ICAS)

Established in 1997, the International Convention of Asia Scholars (ICAS) is a global platform enabling individuals and institutions from different parts of the world to come together to exchange views on a variety of issues pertaining to Asia. Its Secretariat is hosted by the IIAS.

ICAS is organised by local hosts (universities, organisations and cities) in cooperation with the ICAS Secretariat. ICAS offers the organising host a unique opportunity to profile itself in the global framework of Asian Studies. ICAS also connects in a dynamic way to the host city and attracts participants from all continents to engage in transsectoral dialogues on Asia that transcend boundaries between academic disciplines and geographic regions.

GIS Asie (the French Academic Network for Asian Studies) is a consortium of French-speaking research and higher education institutions working on and with Asia.

It includes 22 institutions and 29 research units located in France, Europe and Asia (Tokyo, New Delhi & Pondicherry, Hong Kong, Bangkok). It has been active since 2013 with the support of the National Centre for Scientific Research (CNRS) and benefits from France's long and rich tradition of Asian studies.

GIS Asie's goal is to bring together communities of scholars in social sciences and humanities on Asia, in order to promote dialogue and stimulate initiatives. The Network's aim is also to develop stronger links with European and international networks and institutions. GIS Asie is connected with the 2,750 members of the French Asia Network (Réseau Asie).

Leiden University was founded in 1575 and is one of Europe's leading international research universities. It has seven faculties in the arts, sciences and social sciences, spread over locations in Leiden and The Hague. The University has over 6,700 staff members and 28,130 students. The motto of the University is 'Praesidium Libertatis' – Bastion of Freedom.

Leiden University's knowledge and expertise has a strong international focus. It has built strengths on important regions in the world such as Asia, the Middle East, Africa and Latin America. The University explores these regions from a wide range of perspectives: political, legal, cultural, environmental or historical.

Global developments and challenges are analysed through an international perspective on law, governance, security, health and more. This expertise is further strengthened by strong links with international partners (NGOs, IGOs, UN organisations) in The Hague, city of international law, peace and justice.

The Asian collections at Leiden University's Asian Library belong to the foremost collections on Asia worldwide. It holds the largest collection on Indonesia worldwide, and some of the foremost collections on South and Southeast Asia, China, Japan and Korea.

Activities of GIS Asie include:

- acting as a platform of dissemination for information relevant to the field of Asian studies;
- organizing the French International Conference of Asian Studies, every two years, a major event for researchers to share their results, thoughts and experience;
- fostering links between scientists, funding agencies, governmental institutions;
- participating in cultural and scientific events linked to Asian studies.

GIS Asie supports young researchers, doctoral and postdoctoral students in their training and research activities. It promotes outstanding research works, with PhD thesis awards and book prizes (ICAS-GIS Asie French book prize). It provides support for publishing prominent works on Asia (book series at Editions du CNRS).

There will be musical acts such as a vinyl DJ on a bakfiets.

The market will be operational on 16 July from 11.00-16.00, and on 17-19 July from 12.00-20.00. This means that you can have lunch and dinner at the market, or at least a drink after the last panel, which ends at 18.45.

Special Events

Asia and Europe: Histories of Entanglement

ICAS 11 Pre-Event organised by Leiden University College in The Hague

Date and time: 15 July, 15.00 – 20.00

Venue: Leiden University College in The Hague, Anna van Buerenplein 301, The Hague

The year 2019 marks three decades since the end of the Cold War, its aftermath marked by the 'end of history' thesis. Political and ideological transformations converged around an elite consensus concerning liberal democracy and global capitalism. Yet, talk of a peace dividend notwithstanding, optimism has given way to disillusionment and resentment in many Western and non-Western countries. Indeed, the current historical moment is marked by unprecedented challenges, including xenophobic nationalism, systemic racism, an indefinite global war on terror, and a collective ecological malaise. The post-WWII narrative of unilinear progress, and the Enlightenment ideal of collective prosperity, is now questioned.

The ICAS 11 Pre-Event at LUC poses crucial questions about collective imaginings, in Asia and Europe, with regard to the historical conditions which shape today's world at local and global levels. How do the histories of Europe and Asia interact, converge, and diverge? What are the enduring legacies and sentiments of these narratives? The academic program includes a keynote by Sakai Naoki (Cornell University), roundtable discussions, and interdisciplinary sessions on popular culture and politics, security and IR in East Asia, women and violence, and eastern medicine in the west. In addition, special features include a theatre performance, a documentary on the community outreach project 'Me, Asian?!', and special guest Mei Shigenobu, journalist from Beirut and daughter of Fusako Shigenobu, former leader of the Japanese Red Army in Palestine.

Engaging With Vietnam

Date: 15–18 July

Venue: Oude Sterrewacht

Engaging With Vietnam: An Interdisciplinary Dialogue (EWW), founded in 2008, is an annual multi-disciplinary conference that examines issues of knowledge production and knowledge mobility concerning Vietnam (in the broadest and most inclusive sense of that term). The conference series is the brainchild of Dr. Phan Le Ha, a scholar of the sociology of education and language, international education and globalization studies, formerly lecturing at Monash University in Australia and currently a Professor at the University of Hawai'i at Manoa and a Senior Professor at Universiti Brunei Darussalam. Since 2011, Liam C. Kelley, an Associate Professor of history at the University of Hawai'i at Manoa and an Associate Professor at Universiti Brunei Darussalam, has been assisting as a co-organizer.

EWW Conferences

Each EWW conference focuses on a theme and welcomes participants from any field to address the theme and to engage with each other's work. The first two conferences were held in 2010 at Monash University in Melbourne, Australia and at the University of Social Sciences and Humanities, Vietnam National University in Hanoi where the core issues of knowledge production and knowledge mobility with regards to Vietnam were examined. It then studied such topics as East-West binaries in knowledge production in and about Vietnam (#3, Hanoi, 2011), how knowledge production in and about Vietnam has been affected by Vietnam's integration into the global world of academia (#5, Thai Nguyen University, 2013), and the role that the mobility of knowledge has played in this transformation (#7, Ha Noi University of Business and Technology, 2015). It has also looked at 'Vietnam beyond the boundaries' (#4, The East-West Center, Honolulu 2012) and the 'frontiers and peripheries' of Vietnam (#6, University of Oregon, Eugene, 2014) in both the literal and symbolic senses of these terms. The conference has also focused on 'scholarship and the arts' (#8, University of Hawai'i at Manoa, Honolulu, 2016) and examined the intersections between these two forms of knowledge production, as well as knowledge production in tourism, development and sustainability (#9, University of Social Sciences and Humanities HCMC, Thu Dau Mot University – Binh Duong, and An Giang, 2017/2018). Finally, to mark its tenth anniversary, EWW re-engaged with one of its core interests, dichotomies in knowledge production (#10, USSH VNU HCMC and University of Phan Thiet, 2018).

Each EWW conference brings together invited speakers and conference participants from multiple disciplines, including sociology, education, anthropology, sociology, language studies, philosophy, development, literature, politics, history, economics, and the arts. What is more, EWW is designed in a way that encourages participants to take part in the entire conference, which now can often run for several days of keynote presentations, panels, talk shows, activities and events. Such engagement enables the conference's wide range of participants, from PhD candidates and independent scholars to senior professors and professionals, to engage in extensive and constructive dialogues in an environment that is simultaneously rigorous and convivial. Indeed, for many participants, EWW has become much more than a conference. It is now for many a 'family'.

This year, held in conjunction with ICAS 11, we welcome participants of ICAS to join the Engaging With Vietnam family as we focus in this 11th EWW conference (15-18 July) on the theme 'Vietnam in Europe, Europe in Vietnam: Identity, Transnationality and Mobility of People, Ideas and Practices across Time and Space'.

See you in Leiden in July! Warmest regards, from Phan Le Ha and Liam C. Kelley (Founders, organizers and convenors), the organizing team and our collaborating partners

ICAS 11 Parade and Opening Ceremony

Date and time: 16 July, 15.45 – 18.15

Join the ICAS 11 Parade through the inner city of Leiden! We will start assembling around 15.30 at the ICAS 11 venues and make our way through the alleys of Leiden to the Hooglandse Kerk, Nieuwstraat 20 where the Opening Ceremony will commence.

Musical welcome at the Hooglandse Kerk by pipe organist, Willeke Smits

Upon entering the Hooglandse Kerk to attend the ICAS 11 opening ceremony you will be welcomed by the atmospheric sound of the church organ, played by Ms. Willeke Smits. The foundations of the church were laid in 1315, and starting in 1480 the church was extended into a cathedral. As of 1572 the church fell into protestant hands and all generations since then have applied their own modifications. The old organ was reconstructed by the renowned Van Hagerbeer organ builders, and is now the only existing Dutch city organ originating from the Dutch Golden Age. It is a unique and ideal medium for the interpretation of old organ music.

Willeke Smits

Willeke Smits is (1975) the first female organist in a line of organists going back to 1400. She is resident organist at the Hooglandse Kerk where she plays both the monumental Hagerbeer organ, as well as the romantic Willis organ. In her role as ambassador for the organ she is an active practitioner and revels in creating challenging programs befitting the character of each specific organ. Willeke studied at the Utrecht Conservatorium and in 2017 she was a finalist in the International Sweelinck Competition in Amsterdam and Haarlem. She has recorded several CD's, featuring works by Hendrik Andriessen and Johann Gottfried Walther, and her CD 'Happiness' will truly make you joyful.

Wind flow between Asia and Europe:

A performance by Henri Tournier and Enkhjargal Dandarvaanchig

"Western artists have always been attracted by Eastern arts; many take long journeys through or enjoy extended stays in countries where the cultures fascinate them most. Our globalized lifestyles and ease of modern travel have opened up multiple possibilities for dialogue. Inexplicably, the culture of the other often reflects emotions that are very personal and deeply rooted in our sensibilities.

Eastern music has offered new or long forgotten approaches to European musicians. Such was also the case with Indian music, which I became fond of more than thirty years ago: the art of variation and improvisation, the connection to rhythms, cycles, the use of micro intervals, ornamentation and the melismatic, as well as different techniques giving access to other sonorities and colours that shake up our view of beauty in Music.

These elements were essential in renewing the European musical language, in particular so-called contemporary music. Led by curiosity and fascination, most musicians of Europe and the East naturally embrace the music of the other. One of the challenges is to remain conscious of and to not lose sight of the identity and very character of each music, but to find a common language that will take the different musical universes to someplace new.

This is how our encounter took place when creating the duet/quartet 'Souffles des steppes'. In the last couple of years, Enkhjargal Dandarvaanchig and I have been revisiting Mongolian songs, thereby privileging improvisation as a way to discover a common language, and combining Western, Indian and Mongolian musical elements to explore and express profound emotions."

Henri Tournier

Henri Tournier

Henri Tournier is a passionate ambassador of Indian music, and one of the great Western specialists of the bansuri flute. He has been exploring the various possibilities of the bansuri flute for decades, both in its cradle, Northern India classical music, as well as in world and contemporary Western music. The legendary flautist Roger Bourdin transmitted him his passion for improvisation, which led him to meet with Pandit Hariprasad Chaurasia. After becoming his student and then his assistant, he has taught as a visiting Professor at Rotterdam-Codarts for more than twenty-seven years. Henri Tournier has built his own improvisation and composition language using bansuri and Western transverse flutes. He is constantly working on new music experiences and international recordings. In 2016, he was appointed professor of Modal improvisation and Indian music at the Paris National Music Conservatoire CNSMDP.

Enkhjargal Dandarvaanchig

Enkhjargal Dandarvaanchig (a.k.a. Epi) was born in Altanbulag in Northern Mongolia's steppes where he learned traditional music from an early age. He studied morin khuur (a viol played with a bow) at the Ulaanbaatar Conservatory with the famous Master G. Jamyaan, later playing with the Mongolian National Musical Ensemble throughout the country. As an internationally known musician living in Germany since the nineties, he is a famous ambassador of Mongolian music. In addition to his traditional repertoire concerts, he is invited to perform in musical projects with Jazz, Electronic and World music artists. These collaborations have allowed him to develop a unique and virtuoso playing style of the morin khuur, as well as of traditional singing techniques, especially the diphonic song, which he learned as a self-taught artist while staying in Europe. Enkhjargal Dandarvaanchig is one of Mongolia's most creative musicians of his generation.

The aim is to foster connections and discuss ways to respond, individually and collectively. The Academic Freedom Space brings different institutional and national contexts ranging from South Asia, Africa, Southeast Asia, East Asia, Europe and the Americas together. We want to learn about and from multiple experiences of scholars from these diverse regions to understand their scope, reflect on their implications and explore possible ways of responding. We are organising panel discussions, short film screenings and exhibitions in the Academic Freedom Space on all four days during ICAS.

Asia in Leiden City Walk

Guided walking tours through Asian Leiden by Brill

Dates and times:

18 July, 17.30 – 18.45

19 July, 13.15 – 14.30

Point of departure: Entrance of the Kamerlingh Onnes, Steenschuur 25, Leiden

Registration required, please check the ICAS 11 website for availability (www.icas.asia/icas11)

The Asia in Leiden City Walk introduces you to a number of remarkable people, venues and institutions that are evidence of a profound and longstanding interest in Asia. The arrival of four Dutch vessels in the harbour of Banten, Java, in 1596 formed the beginning of the intensive Dutch involvement in Asia. The first professorship in Arabic was created as early as 1613, and Javanese, Malay, Chinese, Japanese, and Sanskrit followed in the mid-19th century. In this city walk, Dr Anna Beerens, will present some highlights and outlines of that story, which will bring you amongst others to the botanical garden, the 19th century Brill building and beautiful canal houses which once were the homes of Leiden's first Asian Studies professors.

Shirakaba and Japanese Modernism

Lecture on Japanese art by Erin Schoneveld (Haverford College)

Date: 21 July

Venue: Sijthoff, Doezastraat 1b, Leiden

Programme:

13.45 room open

14.00 welcome by Inge Klompmakers of Brill

15.15 – 16.15 drinks and book signing

Registration required, please check the ICAS 11 website for availability (www.icas.asia/icas11)

In her book Shirakaba and Japanese Modernism Dr Erin Schoneveld provides a new comparative framework for understanding the global development of modernism. From April 1910 until September 1923, the Japanese journal Shirakaba (White Birch) released 160 issues featuring articles on Japanese and Western art practices, theory, and criticism. Shirakaba was also one of the first Japanese art magazines to exhibit the works of Auguste Rodin, Paul Cézanne, Vincent van Gogh, Paul Gauguin, and Henri Matisse. Shirakaba was instrumental in reframing the debates on modern Japanese art by serving as an avant-garde platform that advocated individuality and subjective expression.

The talk by Schoneveld examines how the avant-garde pursuit of individuality in early 20th century Japan was in opposition to state-sponsored modernism and how this played out among new artistic media, technologies, and formats, including art magazines such as Shirakaba.

China 1979 – A Giant Awakens

Dates: 7 July – 28 July (opening 6 July, 15.30)

Venue: Culture room of Sijthoff, Doezastraat 1b, Leiden

Tourism in China was very limited until the late 1970s. In 1978 and 1979, Vice President Deng Xiaoping delivered a series of speeches, initiating drastic economic reforms and heralding the development of China's tourism industry. Briefly based in Hong Kong at that time, Dutch photographer Paul van Riel leaped at the opportunity to explore the fascinating 'sleeping giant'. A ten-day trip in January 1979 took him via Guangzhou to Guilin and Nanning in southwest China. In December, he visited Shanghai, Nanjing and Hangzhou. This exhibition shows a generous selection of black and white photos from both trips. Most of these unique images have never been published.

Collection of Vietnam's Nguyễn Dynasty Era Costume Sets made by Ý Vân Hiền Group

The Ý Vân Hiền (Lean on the Clouds House) Group is a gathering place for those who have a strong passion and desire to restore Vietnamese traditional culture. The Nguyễn dynasty era costumes showcased in this exhibition include clothes worn by common people, government officials and members of the royal family. These garments are tailor-made and conform to the technical and aesthetic rules introduced and mandated by the Nguyễn dynasty. The materials used to produce these costumes are sourced from traditional Vietnamese silk villages, such as Mazhou Silk and Van Phuc Silk. The patterns on the costumes, which are adapted from Nguyễn artefacts, ensure historical accuracy and maintain aesthetic values.

“Unlearning & Learning”, Co-curated by Cuong Pham, Nguyen Huu Su and Phan Le Ha

“Unlearning & Learning” is an exhibit and film project. Its aim is to draw attention to Vietnamese, Vietnam, and practices of ‘Vietnamese-ness’ in Europe, and to demonstrate that ties to Vietnam via Europe (and vice versa) are a labyrinth of fragmentations and complications. “Unlearning & Learning” also explores how the varied meanings attached to the Vietnamese language and the ways in which the Vietnamese language is learnt, practiced, promoted and ‘kept’ in/by/among/for Vietnamese communities in varied contexts in Europe can tease out issues of politics, community, belonging and identity.

“In the Footsteps: Hồ Chí Minh in France”, Assembled by Rex Eaton

This display traces Hồ Chí Minh’s life, from the time he landed as a seaman on the eve of WWI, to his return as an activist after the war and his peace mission in 1946 as a President. Using a blend of historical and contemporary photos, it explores his work, lodgings, neighborhoods and travels. Assembled by Rex Eaton and based on research that took him to Paris, the Basque region, Tours & Normandy, it serves as an adjunct to his presentation, “Royalty and Revolutionaries in France” (in Session 93 EWV, 16 July / 13:30-15:15 / Oude Sterrewacht, B.104)

“Vietnam’s Central Highlands: A Dialogue of Art and Scholarship”, Co-created by Pho Ben Doi, Urban Sketchers Vietnam, and Engaging With Vietnam

The curation of this project is inspired by Da Lat, a city in the highlands, about 45-50 minute by air from Saigon/Ho Chi Minh City. Da Lat was built by the French during the colonial period as a holiday destination and get-away haven for the French. It is now still referred to as a ‘European city in the central highlands’. In this exhibition, we will capture and engage with the many meanings and transformations associated with this ‘French/European highland city’ throughout time, space and generations, and via multiple forms of engagement and interactions including Q&A, a display of artworks and local produce (e.g. tea, coffee, chocolate, crafts, flowers, etc.), live drawing/sketching, the showing of music clips and short videos, and the offering of Vietnamese tea and coffee.

Heritage on the Move

An Interdisciplinary Photo Exhibition by Leiden Global about Travelling Heritage

Dates: 16 July – 19 July

Venue: C-hallway, Kamerlingh Onnes, Steenschuur 25, Leiden

Today, heritage and migration go hand in hand more than ever before. For many reasons, people move around the world, and so does their heritage. Leiden Global presents a photo exhibition with photographs by scholars from Leiden showing their idea of the impact of migration on heritage. Cultural heritage is often understood in terms of local identity alone. But in fact, it travels across the globe because of trade, human migrations and many other forms of connectivity, including mass media; and it has done so since times immemorial. In this process, people may change, but so does the cultural 'heritage on the move'.

Hortus Botanicus Leiden – 430 years Challenges in Asian Botany

Lecture and guided tour by Prof. Paul J. A. Kessler

Date and time: 18 July, 16.30-18.30

Venue: Hortus Botanicus Leiden, Rapenburg 73, Leiden
Registration required, please check the ICAS 11 website for availability (www.icas.asia/icas11)

The oldest botanical garden of the Netherlands has focused on Asian plants ever since its establishment as part of Leiden University in 1590. The first tulips came from Central Asia. In the 19th century Von Siebold brought plants from China and Japan to the garden and we are proud that we can still show some of the original specimens to our visitors. Many scientific collections of threatened plant species such as Asian orchids, carnivorous plants, Hoya, Dischidia and Titan Arum have been collected from the wild in cooperation with counterpart institutions in the country of origin. The close, long-lasting links with organisations, especially in South East Asia, have resulted in a collection that is unique in the Netherlands and is used for many national and international research and outreach activities. The lecture will be followed by a tour through the Hortus showing living examples of our Asian collection.

The work is carried out at low benches on Japanese mats (tatami), whilst the drying boards (karibari) are used in tensioning paintings and mounting silks during the process of Japanese mounting (hyōgu). These are just two features that reflect the importance the studio places on traditional conservation. The ICAS 11 Film Festival

Designed to complement ICAS 11 conference proceedings, the ICAS 11 Film Festival will showcase documentary films from Asia.

From human interest stories to narratives of caste, community and gender violence and exclusion, these films explore the histories, societies, politics and cultures of South, South East and Central Asia.

The films attempt to move beyond academic enquiry and could be read as visual documentations of these magnificently and rapidly transforming societies, where tradition and modernity are articulated not as binaries but located in an alternative conceptual universe.

The films shortlisted for screening during ICAS 11 come from a diverse range of countries such as India, Bangladesh, Indonesia, Vietnam, Hong Kong, Japan and Afghanistan.

The festival provides a unique platform for ICAS participants to not only experience the films themselves but also be part of a Q&A session with filmmakers and experts immediately after the screenings.

Festival curator

The ICAS 11 Film Festival is curated by Dr Roshni Sengupta, Fellow, International Institute for Asian Studies (IIAS) and Lecturer, Leiden University Institute for Area Studies. Film Details

Cong Binh: the lost fighters of Vietnam

16 July, 09:30 – 12:30 Lipsius

18 July, 15.00 – 17.30 Trianon Theatre

Director: Lam Le/2012/118 minutes

On the eve of the Second World War, twenty thousand Vietnamese people were recruited in French Indochina and were forced to work in French weapon factories to stand in for workers who had been sent to fight the Germans. Mistaken for soldiers, they were forced to remain in France after the defeat in 1940; during the Occupation, these workers – called ‘Cong Binh’ – were left at the mercy of the Germans and lived like pariahs. Wrongly accused of betraying their native Vietnam, they were in reality followers of Ho Chi Minh and were rooting for Independence in 1945. The film follows around two dozen survivors in Vietnam and France. Five of them died during the editing of the film. This is a page from the history of France and Vietnam which has shamefully been erased from collective memory.

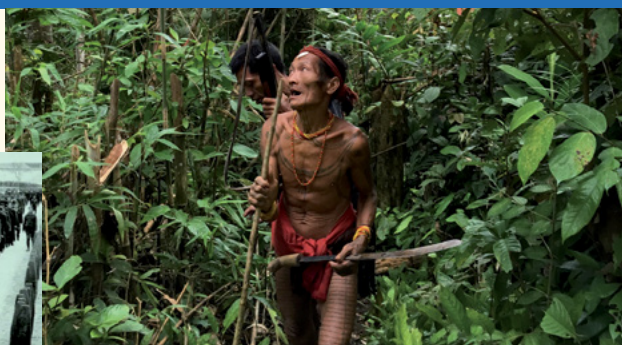

Meet the Millennials

Episode 1: Inside the Pressure Cooker

16 July, 13:30 – 15:15 Lipsius

Director: Joep van Osch/2019/29 minutes

Meet the Millennials is a documentary series by Lucas De Man (BE/NL) and Hyunsin Kim (DE/KOR) about the millennial generation in East Asia. In each episode Lucas and Hyunsin take the audience on a journey to six cities—Seoul, Singapore, Taipei, Tokyo, Hong Kong and Shenzhen—where they meet 100+ millennials who share their stories on camera. Along the way, we get to know this generation and how they’re dealing with the biggest issues facing them. The first episode, Inside the Pressure Cooker, is about burn-out and stress. The documentary series is part of a larger multimedia art project by Company New Heroes called Hello Asia. As part of this project, Lucas/CNH has also made a lecture performance about the millennial generation.

Repdeman (ICAS 11 submission)

17 July, 11:15 – 13:00 Lipsius

Directors: Dandhy Dwi Laksono, Neneng Susilawati and Udrekhan Hanif/2018/63 minutes

Repdeman’ is a Mentawai word which means a memory of something that has reminded us of past occurrences. Comprising four main islands – Siberut, Sipora, North Pagai and South Pagai – earthquake events from the past are common in Mentawai family stories with multiple interpretations. On the one hand, earthquakes were a blessing and an opportunity to rebuild; on the other, they were a sign of disaster. For the Mentawaians, the 2010 tsunami that devastated North Pagai, South Pagai and South Sipora was the first such experience in the last 200 years. This pathbreaking documentary provides us with crucial information of how the tsunami victims survived. It is based on the memory of the survivors and chronicles the way in which they rebuilt their lives in their new permanent resettlements and in temporary hamlets. The film is also a source of valuable knowledge in dealing with natural disasters in the future.

Saving Mes Aynak

17 July, 14:45 – 16:30 Lipsius

18 July, 13:00 – 14:15 Trianon Theatre

Director: Brent Huffman/2014/45 minutes

The award-winning film follows archaeologist Qadir Temori as he races against time to save a 5,000-year-old Buddhist archaeological site in Afghanistan from imminent demolition by a Chinese state-owned mining company, which plans to destroy Mes Aynak to mine for $100-billion worth of copper. Saving Mes Aynak examines the conflict between cultural preservation and economic opportunity, through the lens of the Afghan archaeologists and local villagers who live and work near Mes Aynak. Called, “a doc of crucial immediacy... advocacy filmmaking at its best and most chilling,” by Indiewire, Saving Mes Aynak is both a powerful and moving film, and an inspiring call to action.

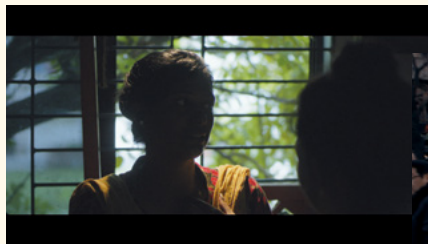

Sangharsh (ICAS 11 submission)

17 July, 17:00 - 18:45 Lipsius

Director: Nicolas Jaoul/2018/105 minutes

Shot between 1997 and 2001, Sangharsh is a long feature documentary film which takes us deep into the lifeworld of Dalit Panther activists in the late 1990s Uttar Pradesh, India. By following three activists, one is taken on a rough trip in the slums and villages of Kanpur region, where these characters are spreading the revolutionary messages of Ambedkar. It is an emotional journey into the urge to struggle in order to assert one's humanity, when humiliation, exploitation and violence remain an everyday occurrence. The film is the cinematographic version of the director's PhD fieldwork, and reflects on what can be achieved with cinema that remains outside the reach of academic writing.

Lukochuri – Hide & Seek (ICAS 11 submission)

18 July, 11:15 - 13:00 Lipsius

Director: Nasrin Siraj Annie/2018-19/20 minutes

Lukochuri (Hide and Seek in English) is a 20-minute documentary film on Bangladeshi women coming to terms with their sexuality while they 'hide and seek' through social pressures and stigma. Women's sexuality is a taboo subject in Bangladeshi society. Nevertheless, three groups of young female migrant workers who participated in a research project on sexual and reproductive health and rights came out to narrate their experiences. Garment workers, sex workers and women from the beauty industry, working in the mega-city of Dhaka relate their experiences of sexual violence, pleasure and desire in the film. The film also traces the bumpy ride the filmmaker had to undertake to find women willing to tell their stories in the film.

This Island is Ours (ICAS 11 submission)

18 July, 11:00 - 12:15 Trianon Theatre

18 July, 14:45 - 16:30 Lipsius

Directors: Nils Clauss and Alexander Bukh/2016/54 Minutes

The territorial dispute between Japan and Korea over the ownership of the Dokdo/Takeshima islets is not limited to state-to-state relations. In both countries there are citizens' groups actively engaged in protesting, lobbying and educating the public. This Island is Ours follows a Korean kindergarten caretaker with a background in student activism and a recently widowed Japanese housewife as they campaign tirelessly for the sovereignty of the tiny islets that are currently controlled by Korea, but also claimed by Japan. This film creates a rare insight into the lives of the two activists on both sides by presenting their parallel experiences from a neutral point of view.

Living Like a Common Man

18 July, 17:00 - 18:45 Lipsius

Directors: Sanderien Verstappen, Mario Rutten and Isabelle Makay/2011/64 minutes

Living Like a Common Man follows the lives of young Indians who move to the West for a better, more prosperous life but end up in low-status jobs and live in cramped, small houses with other newly arrived migrants. The film follows the daily life in one such house in East London. When they return to visit their relatively well-to-do families in India, they encounter great expectations of their parents and family. Will these youngsters fulfil their own and their families' dreams? Living like a Common Man has been screened on NDTV in India, at 16 film festivals, 16 public venues, and 38 academic venues (conferences and courses), and has proved particularly rewarding teaching material in undergraduate courses about migration.

Rangsa ni tonun (ICAS 11 submission)

19 July, 11:15 - 13:00 Lipsius

Directors: MJA Nashir and Sandra Niessen/2013/26 minutes

'Rangsa' in the Batak language (North Sumatra, Indonesia) can be translated as 'description' – but it is more than that. The genre is part of the oral repertory of the Batak guru or knowledge specialist (datu/shaman). Rangsa ni tonun ('tonun' = weaving) is about the steps in the production of a Batak textile. The 'ransa' closes with a reference to Si Boru Hasagian, the first Batak weaver from whom all Batak weavers are believed to have descended. The film depicts weavers as honourable inheritors/perpetuators of culture – a far cry from their current social position. Sandra Niessen (anthropologist and producer of the film) and MJA Nashir (director) have conducted numerous projects in support of the ailing Batak weaving tradition. With that intent, they screened this film in dozens of villages and other Batak venues and gave more than 100 copies to weavers and aficionados.

Revisiting Home: auto-ethnographic artworks of Law Yuk Mui and Tang Kwok Hin in Hong Kong (ICAS 11 submission)

19 July, 14:45 - 16:30 Lipsius

Director: Anson HS Mak/2012-17/62 minutes

This experimental visual montage examines Law Yuk Mui and Tang Kwok Hin's – two important emerging artists in Hong Kong – practice-led auto-ethnographic works regarding identity at issue through re-centering tactics geographically, historically and psychologically. Law's solo exhibition titled Victoria East (2017) shows a series of experimental ethnographic artworks from the search for the original coastline of Tseung Kwan O (Law's home), east of Victory Harbour – the centre of colonized habitants and the financial centre representing mainstream neo-liberalism. The installations invoke debates on Hong Kong identity and the need for its own community history. Tang's works focus on his identity as an indigenous inhabitant of Yuen Long, far north west of Hong Kong. His works mix moving image, performance, and collection of found objects to question the notion of home and community, express his strong emotions and struggles with history through the studies and representation of the 'everyday-life-ness' of his family, death of his grandfather and collective village events of the indigenous cultural tradition.

Lynch Nation

19 July, 17:00 - 18:45 Lipsius

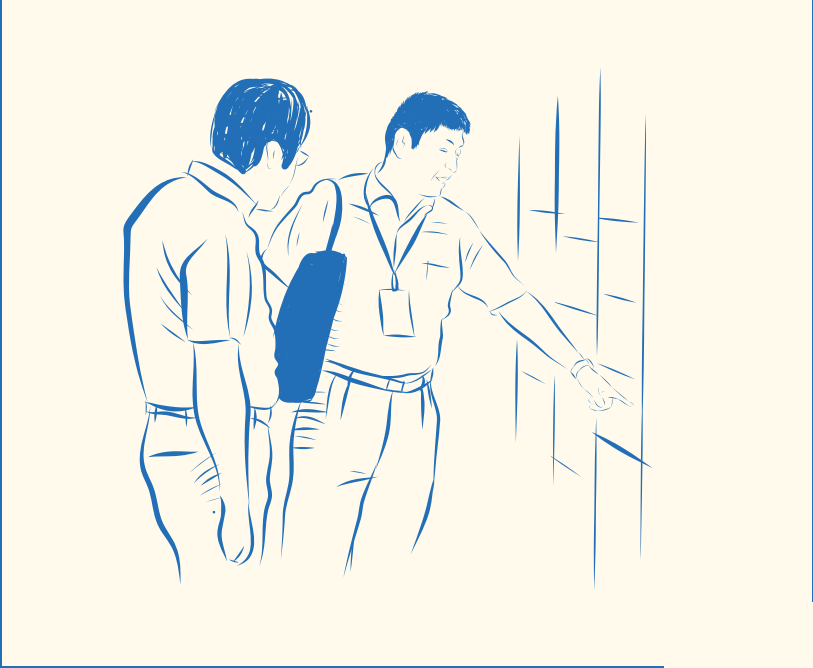

Directors: Ashfaque E J, Shaheen Ahmad, Furqan Faridi, Vishu Sejwal/2018/43 minutes

Ever since the advent of a majoritarian government led by PM Narendra Modi – now in its second term in office – India has experienced relentless communal polarization and violence against minority and marginalised communities. Lynch Nation embarks on a visual journey across India and listens to heart-wrenching stories of mob lynching that have torn apart families and shaken the conscience of the nation. The film documents seven incidents of mob lynching by traveling through the personal spaces of the victims and recording testimonies of survivors and their families. It is an independent and crowd-funded project, with no corporate support.

Asian Studies in Asia

COMPARATIVE ASIAN STUDIES PHD PROGRAMME

Officially launched in 2013, the Comparative Asian Studies (CAS) PhD programme was founded as part of a broader initiative to position the National University of Singapore as a leader in global Asian Studies. Attuned to Asia's interconnectedness and its deepening integration at the local level, the CAS PhD programme was established in recognition that future thought leaders would require a thorough understanding of Asian dynamics in breadth and depth.

LEARNING One of the programme's distinctive features is its attention to inter-Asian connections across regional boundaries and cultural zones. Our specially tailored curriculum provides an innovative, interdisciplinary training for students interested in the critical analysis of the myriad links that span Asia's regions and sub-regions.

COMMUNITY

Housed within a robust Asian Studies Division and complementing existing PhD programmes in East, Southeast, Northeast and South Asia, the CAS programme is part of a vibrant intellectual community that is a pillar of graduate studies in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences.

LOCATION

The opportunity to experience Asia from the inside-out, rather than gazing at it from afar, provides a nuanced understanding of the region's dynamics and global trajectories. Our position within and proximity to Asia's many regions constitutes a distinct advantage for students in the CAS PhD programme who are excited by the prospect of working and living in the field.

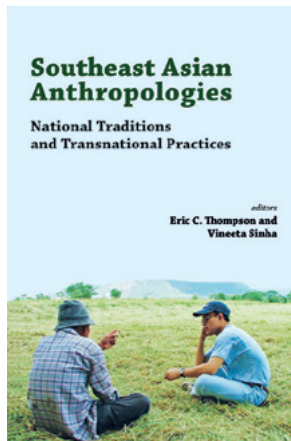

We look forward to you joining us in Singapore and becoming a member of the Asian Studies community at NUS.

Written by the highly regarded diplomat Marty Natalegawa, former ambassador and foreign minister of Indonesia, this book offers a unique insider-perspective on the present and future relevance of ASEAN. It is about ASEAN's quest for security and prosperity in a region marked by complex dynamics of power. Namely, the interplay of relations and interests among countries — large and small — which provide the settings within which ASEAN must deliver on its much-cited leadership and centrality in the region.

This book brings together the work of a group of leading Thai intellectuals of several generations to equip readers to anticipate and understand the developments that lie ahead for Thailand. Contributors offer findings and perspectives both on the disorienting period following the Thai coup of May 2014 and on fundamental challenges to the country and its institutions. The volume will serve as a valuable resource for all those concerned with that future.

In this volume, a leading group of scholars pose the question, has the Philippine economy rejoined the dynamic East Asian mainstream and, if so, what set of policies and priorities are required to maintain the strong economic momentum of recent years? Successive chapters address issues related to growth and poverty, infrastructure and urbanization, education, health, the environment, energy, development finance, and governance and institutions.

As a continent lying to the east of Europe, Asia has been malleable to different spatial and temporal imaginations and politics. Recent scholarship has highlighted how the seemingly self-contained regional configurations of West and Central Asia, South and Southeast Asia, and East Asia carved by the Area Studies paradigm reflect changing (geo)political and economic interests than historical or cultural roots.

Forthcoming

The triumph of Aung San Suu Kyi's National League for Democracy at the 2015 election was supposed to mark the consolidation of a reformist trajectory for Myanmar society. This book takes stock of the mutations, continuities and fractures at the heart of today's political and economic transformations. It continues a long tradition of intense, critical engagement with political, economic and social questions in one of Southeast Asia's most complicated countries.

Perceptions of Southeast Asian Islam are increasingly contested. The international community continues to laud the region's Muslims as among the most 'moderate' and 'inclusive' in the world. In this volume, a range of Muslim scholars and activists from Indonesia, Malaysia and Singapore reflect upon developments in their communities and seek to bring greater nuance to our understanding of these complex religio-cultural and political changes. This book opens up authentic regional perspectives on Islam's contemporary role.
